JOHN LANGHORNE.

L I N C O L N :

PRINTED by W. W O O D.

For R. Griffiths, in the Strand, London.

It is with Reading as with Books. We are directed by habit to a certain choice of Books as of Clotilde, and the taste generally prevails to both. The influence which the Master of a Nation has upon his Literature is visible. The Master understands the full character of the full, rounded, and finished.

The P R E F A C E.

IT is with Reading as with Dress: We are directed by Fashion as much in the Choice of Books as of Cloaths, and the fantastic generally prevails in both. The Influence which the Manners of a Nation have upon it's Literature is visible. The Muses under JAMES and CHARLES the first, punned, a 2 quibbled quibbled and wrote controversial Divinity. For CHARLES the second They talked double Entendre, and furnished the Beau Monde with all sorts of Songs and Catches for Love, Hunting, and Drinking. In some later Reigns They have been better employed.

(iv) P R E F A C E

But the poor Muse of Wit, like most of her Votaries, has generally got her Living very hardly. With Mr. COWLEY She lived in a decent Way, but was obliged, when He walked out, to carry his writing Implements, and to keep Watch while He slept in the Shade. With Lord ROCHESTER She led an infamous

infamous Life, and certainly a more filthy Drab never plied in Drury. Under Dr. S W I F T her Condition was somewhat mended, for She was made necessary Woman to Madam CLOACINA; and the Reader will not be displeased to hear that, since the Doctor's Demise, another Reverend Gentleman has introduced her to the World in the Character of a Midwife, and that She is likely to continue in the profitable Practice of her Art.

While She has thus her Hands full, the good-natured Reader will not expect much from Her in the following Poems. If the

Author

Author has any Merit it is this, that He has been industrious to please. To cover the Defect of Genius He has endeavour'd to amuse by different kinds of Poetry, and for Elegance to substitute Variety. All the following Pieces are the Production of early Years, but that ought not be considered as an Apology. Some of the finest Performances in every Language are the Efforts of young Imagination. The Flights of Juvenile Fancy are lofty, wild, and various. The Works of a young Poet are like natural Landskips, where every Thing is easy, grotesque and careless. The laboured Performances of Age are like regular Gardens, which we visit rather to exercise the Judgment than to regale the Imagination.

However,

P R E F A C E (vii)

However, if little can be found to entertain in these Poems I hope there will be still less to offend; as nothing has been admitted that is inconsistent with good Nature, or good Manners; for the Want of which no Wit can atone.

If any one, into whose Hands these Works may fall, be dissatisfied with his Purchase; let Him remember that they are published for the Relief of a Gentleman in distress, and that He has not thrown away Five Shillings in the Purchase of a worthless Book, but contributed so much to the Assistance of indigent merit. I had rather have my Readers feel that Pleasure sure which arises from the Sense of having done one virtuous Deed than all they can enjoy from the Works of Poetry and Wit.

After this Declaration, I hope, it will scarce be necessary to apologize for the Republication of some Pieces that have been printed before.

To my few Friends, who have contributed to relieve the Gentleman I recommended to their Assistance, I beg Leave to offer my Thanks : their generous Contributions add to the Esteem --- they cannot add to the Affection I have for Them.

DIVINE CONTENTMENT! Cottage-
born,

Do thou inspire my easy lay ;

Let no vain wish, no thought forlorn,

Disturb the calm, the peaceful Day.

Forget't thou when we wander'd o'er

The sylvan BELA's fedy shore,

Or rang'd the woodland wilds along ?

How

How oft on HERCLAY'S mountains high,
We've met the morning's purple eye,
Delay'd by many a Song.

From these delights by Fortune led,
To busy Life and Crowds confin'd ;
At once each golden pleasure fled ;
For Thou, lov'd Nymph, was left behind,•
Yet cou'd these Eyes once more survey
Thy comely Form in mantle grey,
Thy polish'd brow, thy peaceful eye ;
With Thee, where e'er Thou deign'ft to dwell,
In Village-†† Cot, or Hermit's Cell,
With Thee I'd live and die.

Ah where is now each Image gay,
The Hand of Fairy FANCY wove,
Of painted Springs, Elyfian day,
The sparkling Rill, the bloomy Grove ?

DELIGHTLESS queen of gloomy Woe!
No more thy sadly solemn strain
Shall teach these tear-worn eyes to flow,
Tho' sweet M E L P O M E N E complain,
And Life's unnumber'd Ills bewail,
Recounting many a mournful Tale.
Behold! gay-smiling as the youthful Spring,
Parent of Bliss, BENEVOLENCE divine
The chearful rays of gladdening Comfort bring,
And gild the gloom of Melancholy's shrine!
Dejected Care at her approach is gay,
And heavy Discontent turns fullenly away.

With her, what e'er delights the Heart,
The Joys of social Life among,
The Charms that Beauty's smiles impart,
The Graces' dance, the Muses' Song,
The sparkling Glass, the spicy Bowl,
Doubly pleasing, steal the Soul.

Tho' born of Heaven, she mourns no Realms above,

Nor sighs in absence of a happier Day;
Pleas'd the dull Scenes of human joy t'improve,
The Smiles and Graces round their Goddess
play;

With Wreaths fresh-blooming her fair brows

Where in mild lust're beams the radiance of the Morn.

Yet have I seen in Tears those Eyes,
Where Smiles of lively Pleasure dwell;

Yet have I seen, with bursting Sighs,
That joy-dilated Bosom swell ;
When Pity taught the Tear to flow,
The Heart to melt with generous woe.

In anguish, folds her dying Infant fair;
As guardian Angels, when some grief alarms,
Or some dread Ruin threatens their thoughtless care ;
Oft have I seen her o'er Distress complain,
Rear the low-drooping head, and sooth the Heart in pain.

In lonely wilds, and Desarts drear,
To Life's luxurious Joys unknown ;
Where Sorrow sheds her silent Tear,
And want unpity'd pines alone ;
In search of Grief she loves to stray,
Nor scorns the tenement of clay.

 Fires all the Malice of the murd'ring Cry :
 Forc'd from his helpless Mates the fated Prey
 Bears on the Wings of quiv'ring Fear away ?
 In Flight (ah! could his matchless Flight avail)
 Scorns the fierce Steed, and leaves the flying Gale.
 Now trembling stops --- and listens from afar
 In long, long deep'ning Howls, the madd'ning War ;

While loud-exulting Triumphs thunder round,
 Tremble the Mountains, and the Rocks rebound.
 In vain, yet vig'rous, He renews his Race,
 In vain dark Mazes oft perplex the Chace :
 With Speed inspir'd by Grief He springs again
 Thro' vaulted Woods, and devious Wilds in vain.

From all the various Blooms of painted Bow'rs,
Fair, banky Wilds, and Vallies fring'd with Flow'rs,

Where Nature in Profusion smiles Delight,
With Pleasure-fated turns the roving Sight.

Come then, bright Vision ! Child of heav'nly

And lose their Aspect in the falling Skies.

What pleasing Scenes the Landskip wide

Th' enchanting Prospect bids for ever gaze.

Hail charming Fields of happy Swains the Care !

Hail happy Swains possesst of Fields so fair !

In Peace your plenteous Labours long enjoy ;

No murd'ring Wars shall waste, nor foes destroy ;

While Western Gales Earth's teeming Womb

The Seasons change, and bounteous Suns are Rejoicing Affluence on his Silver Wings.

On verdant Hills, see ! Flocks innum'rous feed,
Or thoughtful listen to the lively Reed.

The wand'ring Eye from Nature's wild

Attracted, turns to fairer Scenes again.
Scenes, which to Thee, refining Art! belong,
Invite the Poet, and inspire the Song.

Sweet, philosophic Muse! that lov'st to stray
In woody-curtain'd Walks and dim-seen Day,
Lead me, where lonely Contemplation roves,
Thro' silent Shades and solitary Groves.

Stop daring Foot! the sacred Maid is here!
These awful Glooms confess the Goddess near.

Low

Low in these Woods her Fav'rite Scene is laid,
 The Fence umbrageous, and the dark'ning shade;
 Whose bow'ry Branches bar the vagrant Eye,
 Affailing Storms and parching Suns defy.
 A gentle Current calmly steals serene,
 In silv'ry Mazes, o'er the weeping Green,
 'Till op'ning bright, it's bursting Waters spread,
 And fall fast-flashing down a wide Cascade.
 A spacious Lake below expanded lies,
 And lends a Mirror to the quiv'ring Skies.
 Here pendant Domes, there dancing Forests seem
 To float and tremble in the waving Gleam.

While gayly-musing o'er it's verdant Side,
 Pleas'd I behold the glassy Riv'let glide;
 Bright in the Verdure of the blooming Year,
 Where circling Groves their full-blown Honours
 wear ;

Reviving, smiles, or seems to smile again.

Hail, blissful Scene! divine Elysium, hail!
Ye flow'ry Blooms eternal Sweets exhale :
The blest Asylum's here, the sacred Shore,
Where Toils tumultuous tear the Breast no more.

Appalling Terror, and perplexing Care,

While cheated Worlds, by Pleasure's Lure betray'd,

Thro' Rocks and Sands pursue the Syren-Maid ;
 And, long-bewilder'd, urge the weary Chace,
 Tho' still the Phantom slips their vain Embrace :

'Tis his with pitying Eye to see ---- to know
 Whence purest Joy's perennial Fountains flow.

With this exalting Charm divinely blest,
 The dear Reflection of a Blameless Breast :
 Where sweet-ey'd Love still smiles serenely Gay,
 And Heav'nly Virtue beams a brighter Ray.

 His own his Censure, and his own his Praise :
 Alike to him, both Subjects of the Grave,
 The Scepter'd Monarch, and the menial Slave.

In the lone Tomb of some sequester'd Shade!
More amply Blest, if gloriously retir'd,

With Learning charm'd, and with the Muses

Who nobly dares with philosophic Eye,

Thro' full Creation's bounded Orbs to fly ;

Pleas'd, in their well-form'd Systems, still to find

The matchless Wisdom of th' immortal Mind.

Still charm'd in Nature's various Plan to trace

His boundless Love and all-supporting Grace.

Ye pompous Great ! whose Dream of Glory springs

From founding Titles, or the Smiles of Kings:

Ye, lawrell'd in the bleeding Wreathes of War !

And ye, whose Hearts are center'd in a Star!

Say, all ye Sons of Power and Splendor, say,

E'er could ye boast one unimbitter'd Day?

Cease the vain Hope in dazzling Pomp to find

Divine Content, to humbler Lots assign'd ;

The modest Fair frequents the lowly Cell,

Where smiling Peace and conscious Virtue dwell.

While thro' the Maze of winding Bow'rs I

The Shade's dim Gloom, or Vista's op'ning Day;

Soft-fighting Groves, where filky Breezes fill,

And all the Muses all their Charms unfold.

Ye, Woods of Pindus, and Etolian Plains,
No more shall listen to immortal Strains :
Flow unconcern'd, no Muse celestial sings,
Ye Thracian Fountains, and Aonian Springs !
No more your Shades shall leave their Native

Mourn, in sad Silence, thy forsaken Groves :
No more thy Warblers rival Notes admire,
Nor choral Zephyrs fill the breathing Lyre.
Each drooping Lawrel bends it's languid Head ;
The Strains are vanish'd, and the Muses fled.

To nobler Hills, where fairer Forests grow,
To Vales, where Streams in sweeter Accents flow ;
To blooming Studley's more delightful Shades
Welcome, ye sacred, ye celestial Maids !
Wake the soft Lute, here strike the founding

Make the Groves echo, and the Vallies ring ;
Harmonious lead, thro' rosy-smiling Bow'rs,
The soft-ey'd Graces and the dancing Hours.

'Till beauteous rises a devoted Dome ;
Thy Fane, seraphic Piety ! low plac'd
In fable Gloom, by deep'ning Woods embrac'd.
Nor radiant here the Princè of Day displays
His Morning Blushes, nor Meridian Blaze :
Rolls o'er the World the splend'ed Orb unseen,
'Till his last Glories gild the streaming Green ;
Then sportive Gleams thro' parting Columns
play,
Here waves a Shadow, and there smiles a Ray.

 Th' uneasy Pains that vex the Noon of Life ;
 Not dazzled with the Diamond-beaming Zone,
 Flash of a Lace, or Brilliance of a Stone,

 Where Hope exulting reaps eternal Day.

The sacred Solitude, the lone Recess,
 An awful Pleasure on my Soul impress.
 Raptures Divine thro' all my Bosom glow,
 The Bliss alone immortal Beings know.
 Ah, knew that Sovereign Bliss no base Alloy,
 Wer't Thou, my Farrer! witness to my Joy :
 What nobler Pleasure could we boast below !
 What Joy sublimer Heav'n itself bestow !

And all the Goddeſs fills her heav'nly Shrine.
Celestial Maids before her Altar move :
White-handed INNOCENCE, and weeping Love.

Her prideful Domes let Richmond boast alone :
The ſculptur'd Statue and the breathing Stone :
Alone diſtinguiſh'd on the Plains of Stowe,
From Jones's Hand the featur'd Marble glow :

 While all the Landkip opens all it's Charms :
 While pleas'd I see, the parting Shades between,
 The Lake fair-gleaming and the smother Green ;
 Thro' lowly Grotts where wand'ring Shadows

 Groves gently wave, and glist'ning Waters play.

All-beauteous Nature ! Object of my Song,
To Thee my first, my latest Strains belong :
To Thee my Lays I tune, while envious Art
In rival Charms here courts the raptur'd Heart.
Like Thee to please, she decks the painted Bow'r,
Spreads the smooth Lawn, and rears the Velvet
Flow'r :

With winding Arbours crowns the sylvan Dale,
And bends the Forest o'er the lowly Vale :
Bids the loud Cataract deep-thund'ring roar,
Or winds the Riv'let round a mazy Shore :

Ambitious still, like thee, when she beguiles,
Wins with thy Grace, and in thy Beauty smiles.

In this gay * Dome where sportive Fancy plays,

And imag'd Life the pictur'd Roof arrays;
Proud in thy Charms the Mimic shines confest,
Beams the soft Eye, and heaves the panting

Those arduous Paths thy Newton trod before !
There wond'ring shou'd my ravish't Eye survey
New Worlds of Being, and new Scenes of Day.
But if for my weak Wing and trembling flight,
Too vast the Journey, and too full the Light :

IN spight of all the rusty Fools
That clean old Nonfence in the Schools,
The World has Joys, is fair and free,
For You, and Hal, and Tom, and Me.
Shall we then starve like -----s Wife,
And chew boil'd Cabbages for Life?
No, You, my Lord, the Thought disdain,
That Nature could be kind in vain:
But, generous Youth, make Her your Guide,
And err not on the other Side.
Like Her in all you deign to do,
Be liberal, but be sparing too.

When old TERNUNCIO, Night by Night,
 With his dear Bags regales his Sight;
 And Conscience, Reason, Pity sleep,
 Tho' Virtue pine, tho' Merit weep;
 I see the keen Reproaches fly,
 Indignant, from your honest Eye;
 Each bounteous Wish glows unconfin'd,
 And your Breast labours to be kind.

But hold! my noble Friend, beware
 The servile Flatterer's specious Snare,
 The fawning Sycophant, whose Art
 Marks the warm Motions of the Heart,
 Each idle, each insidious Knave,
 That acts the graceful, wise, or brave.

His dues on all imported Ware;
There, rang'd in Rows, no liveried Train

No Flatterer's planetary Face
Ply'd for a Bottle, or a Place.
Toad-eating FRANCE, and fiddling ROME

 Priests, Knights, and 'Squires in high Debate
 On Giants, Foxes, Church and State ;
 When the strange Compliment commences,
 To praise their Host, and lose their Senses.

Go then, my Lord ! keep open Hall ;
 Proclaim your Table free for all.

HO, all ye Antiquaries! learn
A curious Tale of THOMAS HEARN.
In OXFORD, Town of classic Knowledge,
Is many a Hall, and many a College.
Besides those leffer Domes, that wait,
As Servitors, upon the Great:
Where Science oft an Evening passes,
And smokes her Pipe, and drinks her Glasses.

A black-Shoe-Boy may be a Bishop,
To this same Hall, respected Name,
Sage THOMAS HEARN one Evening came ;
Sage THOMAS was no modern Sot ;
He smok'd one Pipe, and drank one Pot.
When, lo ! a Wight of just discerning,
Averse to part with so much Learning,
Profoundly sigh'd ; and, HEARN, He said,
This sacred Floor, on which we tread ;
This Floor, profan'd by modern Potters,
And call'd a Pavement of Sheep's Trotters,

And vanquish'd Belgia bows to Cæsar's Sway;
When, scarce-beheld, embattled Nations fall,
The fierce Sicambrian, and the faithless Gaul;
Tir'd Freedom leads her Savage Sons no more,
But flies, subdued, to Albion's utmost Shore.

And thus, "My Son" the Queen of Glory said;
"Immortal Cæsar! lift thy languid Head.

"Or Morpheus rule the Monarch of Mankind?
"See Worlds unvanquish'd yet await thy Sword!

* Bion, the pastoral Poet, lived in the Time of Ptolemy Philadelphus. by the Epithet Smyrneus, every where applied to him, it is probable that he was born at Smyrna. Moschus confirms this, when he says to the River Meles, which had before wept for Homer,

-----Thou now again bewailest another Son.

It is evident however that he spent much of his Time in Sicily.

Moschus, as he tells us, was his Scholar ; and by him we are inform'd, that his Master was not a poor Poet. " Thou hast left to others thy Riches, says he, but to me thy Poetry." It appears from the same Author, that he died by Poison. The best Edition of his Works, is that of Paris, by M. de Longe-Pierre, with a French Translation.

Son of Cynaras, King of Cyprus.
His chief Employment was hunting,
tho' he is represented by Virgil
as a Shepherd.

----- *Oves ad Flumina pavit
Adonis.*

He was killed by a wild Boar,
if we may believe Propertius, in Cyprus.

---- *Percussit Adonim

The Anniversary of his Death was celebrated through the whole Pagan World. Aristophanes, in his Comedy of Peace, reckons the Feast of Adonis among the chief Festivals of the Athenians. The Syrrians observed it with all the Violence of Grief, and the greatest Cruelty of Self-Castigation. It was celebrated at Alexandria in St.

Cyril's Time; and when Julian, the Apostate, made his Entry at Antioch, in the Year 362, they were Celebrating the Feast of Adonis.

The Antients differ greatly in their Accounts of this Divinity.
Athenæus says, that he was the Favourite of Bacchus. Plutarch maintains, that he and Bacchus are the same, and that the Jews abstain'd from Swine's Flesh because Adonis was kill'd by a Boar.
Aufonius, Epig. 30. affirms that Bacchus, Osiris, and Adonis, are one and the same.

Stretch'd on this Mountain thy torn Lover lies.

Weep, Queen of Beauty ! for he bleeds

---- he dies.

Ah ! yet behold Life's last Drops faintly flow,

In streams of Purple, o'er those Limbs of Snow !

From the pale Cheek the perish'd Roses fly ;

And Death dims slow the ghastly-gazing Eye.

Kiss, kiss those fading Lips, ere chill'd in Death ;

With soothing Fondness stay the fleeting

Breath.

'Tis vain ----- ah ! give the soothing Fondness o'er !

ADONIS feels the warm Salute no more.

ADONIS dead, the Muse of Woe shall mourn.

ADONIS dead, the weeping Loves return.

His faithful Dogs bewail their Master slain,
And mourning Dryads pour the plaintive
Strain.

Not the fair Youth alone the Wound oppress,
The Queen of Beauty bears it in her Breast.
Her Feet unsandal'd, floating wild her Hair,
Her Aspect woeful, and her Bosom bare,
Distrest, she wanders the wild Wastes forlorn,
Her sacred Limbs by plowing Brambles torn.

Loud

Distrest, she wanders, &c.] Beauty and Propriety. Indeed,
This Image of the Sorrow of most modern Poets seem to have Venus is very affecting, and is observ'd it, and have profited by it introduced in this Place with great in their Scenes of despairing Love.

Loud as the Grieves, furrounding Rocks complain,

And Echo tho' the long Vales calls her absent
Swain.

ADONIS hears not: Life's last Drops fall flow,
In Streams of Purple, down his Limbs of Snow.
The weeping Cupids round their Queen deplore,
And mourn her Beauty, and her Love no more.

Each rival Grace, that glow'd with conscious
Pride,

Each Charm of Venus with ADONIS dy'd.

The swelling Floods with sea-born Venus weep,

And roll in mournful Murmurs to the Deep:

In melting Tears the Mountain-springs

The Flow'rs low-drooping, blush with Grief and die.

Cythera's

The swelling Floods, &c.]

When the Poet makes the Rivers mourn for Venus, he very properly calls her Aphrodita; but this perhaps was merely accidental, as he has given her the same Appellation when she wanders the Desart.

The Flow'rs, low-drooping, blush, &c.]

Paleness being the known Effect of Grief, we do not at first Sight accept this Expression; but when we consider that the first Emotions of it are attended with Blushes, we are pleased with the Observation.

Y

Cythera's Groves with Strains of Sorrow ring ;
 The Dirge Funereal her sad Cities sing.
 Hark ! pitying Echoes Venus' Sighs return ;
 When Venus sighs, can aught forbear to mourn ?

But when she saw her fainting Lover lie,
 The wide Wound gaping on the withering
 Thigh ;

But streaming when she saw Life's purple Tide,
 Stretch'd her fair Arms, with trembling
 Voice she cry'd :

Cythera's Groves, &c.]

This Passage the Scholiasts have entirely misunderstood. They mistake the Island Cythera for Venus, for which there is neither Authority, her doric Name being always Cytherea, nor Probability from the Connexion.

This proves that the Island Cythera was the Place where Adonis perish'd, notwithstanding the Opinion of Propertius and others to the contrary.

Yet stay, lov'd Youth! a moment ere we part,

O let me kiss thee! hold thee to my Heart!

A little moment, dear ADONIS! stay!

And kiss thy Venus, ere those Lips are Clay.

Let those dear Lips by mine once more be prest,

'Till thy last Breath expire into my Breast.

Then, when Life's ebbing Pulse scarce, scarce

can move,

I'll catch thy Soul, and drink thy dying Love.

That last-left Pledge shall sooth my tortur'd

Heart,

When thou art gone —————

When, far from me, thy gentle Ghost explores

Infernal Pluto's grimly-glooming Shores.

Wretch that I am ! immortal and divine,
In Life imprison'd whom the Fates confine.
He comes ! receive him to thine Iron-arms ;
Blest Queen of Death ! receive the Prince of Charms.

Far happier thou, to whose wide Realms repair,
Whatever lovely, and whatever fair.

The Smiles of Joy, the golden Hours are fled :
Grief, only Grief, survives A D O N I S dead.

The Loves around in idle Sorrow stand,

And the dim Torch falls from the vacant Hand.

Hence the vain Zone ! the Myrtle's flow'ry Pride !

Delight and Beauty with A D O N I S died.

Why

several OCCASIONS. (173)

Why did'st thou, ventrous, the wild Chace explore ?

From his dark Lair to rouse the tusky Boar ?

Far other Sport might those fair Limbs essay,

Than the rude Combat, or the savage Fray.

Thus Venus griev'd ----- the Cupids round
deplore,

And mourn her Beauty, and her Love no more.

Now flowing Tears in silent Grief complain,

Mix with the purple Streams, and flood the Plain.

Yet not in vain those sacred Drops shall flow,

The purple Streams in blushing Roses glow :

And catching Life from ev'ry falling Tear,

Their azure Heads Anemonies shall rear.

But

But cease in vain to cherish dire Despair,
Nor count thy Sorrows to the desert Air.
The last sad Office let thy Hand supply,
Stretch the stiff Limbs, and close the glaring Eye.

That Form repos'd beneath the Bridal Vest,
May cheat thy Sorrows with the Feint of Rest.
For lovely smile those Lips, tho' void of Breath,
And fair those Features in the Shade of Death.
Haste, fill with Flow'rs, with rosy Wreaths his Bed.

Perish the Flow'rs! the Prince of Beauty's dead.

Round the pale Corse each breathing Essence strew,

Let weeping Myrtles pour their balmy Dew.

Perish

Several OCCASIONS. (175)

Perish the Balm, unable to restore
Those vital Sweets of Love that charm no more !

'Tis done.----- Behold, with purple Robes
array'd,

In mournful State the clay-cold Limbs are laid.

The Loves lament with all the Rage of Woe,

Stamp on the Dart, and break the useless Bow.

Officious these the watry Urn supply,

Unbind the buskin'd Leg, and wash the Thigh.

O'er the pale Body those their light Wings wave,

As yet, tho' vain, solicitous to save.

All, wild with Grief, their hapless Queen
deplore,

And mourn her Beauty and her Love no more.

Dejected

Dejected Hymen droops his Head forlorn,
His Torch extinct, and flow'ry Tresses torn :
For nuptial Airs, and Songs of Joy, remain
The sad, flow Dirge, the Sorrow-breathing
Strain.

Who wou'd not, when ADONIS dies, deplore?
Who wou'd not weep when Hymen smiles
no more ?

The Graces mourn the Prince of Beauty slain,
Loud as Dione on her native Main :
The Fates relenting join the general Woe,
And call the Lover from the Realms below.

Vain,

The dark, dead Regions of eternal Shade?
Spare, Venus, spare that too luxuriant Tear
For the long Sorrows of the mournful Year.

Let raptur'd Fancy on that moment dwell,
When thy dear Vows in trembling Accents fell :
When Love acknowledg'd wak'd the tender sigh,
Swell'd thy full Breast, and fill'd thy melting eye.
Oh ! blest for ever be the auspicious Day !
Dance all it's Hours in Pleasure's golden Ray !
Pale Sorrow's Gloom from ev'ry Eye depart,
And laughing Joy glide lightly thro' the Heart.
Let Village-Maids their festive Brows adorn,
And with fresh Garlands meet the smiling Morn ;
Each happy Swain, by faithful Love repaid,
Pour his warm Vows, and court his Village Maid.

Yet shall the Scene to ravish'd Memory rise,
CONSTANTIA present yet shall meet these Eyes ;

On her fair Arm her beauteous Head reclin'd,
 Her Auburn Tresses waving in the Wind,
 While Love and Fear, contending in her Face,
 Flush every Rose, and heighten every Grace.
 Yes: yes, tis She: Ye Flowers around her throw
 Your choicest Sweets! ye Gales more softly blow!
 O may she still your kind Protection prove,
 Ye Guardian Powers, of Innocence and Love!

O, never, while of Life and Hope possesst,
 May this dear Image quit my faithful Breast.
 The painful Hours of Absence to beguile,
 May thus CONSTANTIA look, CONSTANTIA smile.
